Registration is open for the TPAM Performing Arts Meeting in Yokohama, Japan. TPAM is an international platform for performing arts professionals that anticipates participants who share interest in and passion for creation, promotion, development, dissemination, exchange, critique and study of contemporary performing arts. TPAM 2014: 8-16 February 2014 TPAM is the largest international performing arts platform for performing arts in Japan, where professionals get together beyond national and regional borders to exchange information, learn mutually and build network through diverse programs including performances, discussions and meetings. Audiences can witness latest works that professionals want to see / show. We anticipate participants who share interest in and passion for contemporary performing arts.

Launched as Tokyo Performing Arts Market (TPAM) in 1995. In 2011, it moved to Yokohama, changed the “M” from “Market” to “Meeting” and restarted as “Performing Arts Meeting in Yokohama.” At diverse venues in an walkable area in Yokohama, it is held for the 18th time as an international platform for performing arts.
