A STUDY OF THE PEOPLE WHO WORK IN ARTS AND CULTURE

National Arts Council in Singapore has commissioned The Arts and Culture Employment Study (ACES) 2013 to understand the employment conditions and arrangements of the people who work in the arts and culture sector. This is the first time that the National Arts Council (NAC) is undertaking such a survey.

Key findings will be collated, analysed and made available for public access. NAC hopes that the study will provide useful insights to employers and people in our sector.

NAC plans to repeat this survey every two years, to observe important trends that impact the planning of future arts and cultural policies.

If you are based in Singapore and work in the arts and culture, you can access the survey here

The online survey is now open for participation until 30 July 2013
