New NEMO Publication Summarises European Museum Awards

The Network of European

Museum Organisations - NEMO has recently released a publication entitled European Museum Awards - A guide to quality work in museums. The publication presents an overview of existing award schemes together with easily accessible information on how museums can apply to them. The aim of the publication is to encourage museums to become acquainted with some of the most important award schemes in Europe and to consider the idea of competing for one of them. As a museum applying for an award, it has to scrutinise itself and reflect over their past years' achievements as well as where it is heading in the future. After all, assessing the quality of museum work also means assessing how the role of museums and the meaning of the word "museum" itself have changed over time. NEMO hopes that the publication will support museums in their work of delivering quality work for their communities and society at large. European Museum Awards - A guide to quality work in museums is accessible for free via <https://www.nemo.org/news/article/nemo/new-nemo-publication-summarizes-european-museum-awards.html>
