Angkor Photo is calling for applications from photographers of all Asian nationalities aged 21 and above for the next Angkor Photo Workshops, to be held from 30 January to 8 February 2026 in Siem Reap, Cambodia.

The 21st Angkor Photo Workshop will involve a group of 20 participants led by 6 tutors and alumni facilitators, who will guide the participants in creating a body of work during their time in Siem Reap. The projects will be shared with the public at the end of the workshops.

Angkor Photo welcomes all methods and approaches to the medium of photography. There are no restrictions on the type of projects that participants can undertake during the workshops.

The workshop will reflect on how the photography landscape has evolved since it began two decades ago, and Angkor Photo believes it is important to foster photographic practices which deepen the relationship not only with oneself, but also with people and the world.

It is important that participants are ready to fully immerse themselves in Siem Reap and the experience of the workshops, and to be prepared to create work which comes from discovering and creating direct connections with the place and people.

The workshops are conducted in English and participants need to have their own photographic equipment and laptop.
