Manila | The Script Factory | call for applications

 BritishCouncilManila_ScriptWorkshop Cinemanila and the British Council offer to Southeast Asia, for the first time, the opportunity to participate in the pioneering and world-renowned script development workshop run by UK's The Script Factory.

The intensive film and television drama is especially designed to hone the skills and talents of practitioners working with feature film and television drama scripts.

Over three days, participants will be introduced to a structured approach of assessing scripts and preparing a development strategy. By examining produced screenplays, participants will consider what makes a good screen story.

The workshop will offer 35 participants the chance to train and network alongside the best script writing and producing talent in Southeast Asia. This is a unique opportunity for those involved in script writing and development for the big and small screen and it is available for the first time in Asia.
