Online StageJam #4 for performing artists

Schaubude Berlin are inviting artists and groups to take part in StageJam, online performative jam sessions from 4 to 10 June 2023.

During the fourth StageJam, participants can spend a week exploring the theatrical potential of online tools and immerse themselves in the platform Gather Town. The central focus of this artistic research is the development of short theater and performance formats that take place within the virtual spaces of Gather Town.

The StageJam takes place online and in a decentralised way. Schaubude Berlin will provide a Discord server for communication, exchange and collaboration. In addition, they will provide invitations to online networking formats during the week to let participants get to know the work of the other artists and groups. A continuous documentation of and reflection about the process will be supported through daily questions.

At the end of the week on 10 June 2023, a stage test will take place as part of the showcase Figure It Out.

Participants will be paid a fee of 750.00 EUR per person selected and there are a maximum of 10 places in the programme.

Who can apply?

International individual artists and groups of a maximum of 4 persons who work professionally in the field of the performing arts or who are studying the performing arts can apply. Prior experience is not required.

The working language is English. The meetings and presentations will be scheduled according to Central European Time.
