German Society Of Cinematographers (bvk)

The German Society Of (bvk) was founded in 1980 as an organization for free-lanced directors of photography and camera-crew members. Over the years the bvk has put on an impressive number of seminars and workshops for the information and further education of its members. The bvk became a member of the Verwertungsgesellschaft Bild-Kunst, the German Collecting society, (organizing the levy of royalties). The bvk publishes this yearbook, the CameraGuide, listing its members' background and addresses, which is constantly updated. This CameraGuide has brought the bvk and its members to the notice of Film- and TV-producers throughout Europe.
